Hello,

My name is [REDACTED], and I have recently been enrolled in a class titled, "Foundation Before Creation" at Putnamville Correctional Facility. It is a class with curriculum designed to help facilitate the growth and development of individual businesses and to foster an entrepreneur-style of thinking. It is a once weekly class brought into the prison by a volunteer who has also served time here named, Ethan P. Ethan has an energy in his delivery style that few others can match. I believe that this energy stems from his ability to connect with us who are currently incarcerated. He has been able to break the bonds and stigma of having a felony and is bringing information from the perspective of someone who is genuinely happy to help. Sometimes the class seems to get sidetracked from topic, but it is always with valid concerns and questions that are related to the course. I am extraordinarily thankful to be part of this experience that is bound to be most valuable to me as a person soon to reenter society. Ethan is presenting skills and steps to help me and others like myself get a running start as we return to society. This is most beneficial to society as this will help lower prison recidivism and prison over-population concerns.

I hope this review is informative and helpful.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
